

World Partners for Development and its partners empowering rural communities to design assemble and maintain their own affordable solar light system to replace their carbon polluted kerosene and oil wick lanterns.

Women empowered to assemble and maintain their own solar lanterns

Locally made solar lanterns

Make your own sustainable Solar Light System from your local materials

Communities being train on do-it-yourself solar light construction

Rural folks enjoying their locally made solar lanterns

